Reconciliation

The white plague has come
Crawling through your land like a disease
Ready to fill your dreams with envy
Turn the grass the color of anger
Make us beg for more, always
How deep can you hide?

The black snake is coming
Crawling through your land like a disease
Ready to fill your lakes with his pus
Turn the grass the color of despair
Make us beg for yesterday
How fast can you run?

With the breath of her feather
With the touch of a singer
How loud can you scream?

With the strength of your elder
Or with the help of a friend,
Together we'll go.

The white snow is falling
Crawling through the wind like a song
Ready to fill your heart with blessings
Turn the grass the color of your tongue
Make you see seven times stronger
Together, we'll go.
